

References

- Bernatchez, Eric, c. 2002, "Why does Verizon Wireless Supports Phone Use & Driving Restrictions?" Retrieved April 11, 2006, from About.com Web site: http://cellphones.about.com/library/weekly/bl_verizon_wireless.htm
- Britt, Robert Roy, 2005, "Drivers on Cell Phones Kill Thousands, Snarl Traffic." Retrieved April 11, 2006, from Live Science and Technology Web site: http://www.livescience.com/technology/050201_cell_danger.html
- Gebler, Dan, 2000, "Hang Up and Drive?" Retrieved April 11, 2006, from Wireless Newsfactor Web site: <http://www.wirelessnewsfactor.com/perl/story/5627.html>
- Harvard Center for Risk Analysis, 2002. "Updated Study Shows Higher Risk of Fatality from Cell Phones While Driving." Retrieved April 11, 2006, from the Harvard Center for Risk Analysis Web site: <http://www.hcra.harvard.edu/cellphones.html>.
- Insurance Information Institute. 2006. "Cell Phones and Driving." Retrieved April 11, 2006, from the Insurance Information Institute Web site: <http://www.iii.org/media/hottopics/insurance/cellphones/>.
- Memmer, Scott, 2000, "Cell Phone Safety." Retrieved April 11, 2006, from Edmunds.com Web site: http://www.edmunds.com/edweb/editorial/features/cell_phone_safety/
- Glassbrenner, Donna PhD, 2005, "Driver Cell Phone Use in 2005- Overall Results." Retrieved April 18, 2006, from National Highway Traffic Safety Administration Web site: <http://www-nrd.nhtsa.dot.gov/pdf/nrd-30/NCSA/RNotes/2005/809967.pdf>
- Sundeen, Matt. 2005. "Cell Phones and Highway Safety: 2005 Legislative Update." Retrieved April 11, 2006, from the National Conference of State Legislatures Web site: <http://www.ncsl.org/programs/transportation/cellphoneupdate05.htm#opinion>.

Compiled by Jesse Kraham and Nathan Bosshard under the supervision of Professor Anthony Gierzynski on April 2, 2001.

Updated by Gabriela Bourne, Chris Dunham and Eve Margolis under the supervision of Professor Anthony Gierzynski on April 13, 2006.

Disclaimer: This report has been compiled by undergraduate students at the University of Vermont under the supervision of Professor Anthony Gierzynski. The material contained in the report does not reflect the official policy of the University of Vermont.