Maple syrup production in Vermont increased by 10 percent in 1994 over 1993, but this increase was due to a 10 percent increase in production in the second half of the year. Production in the first half of the year was 10 percent below the 1993 level because of poor weather. The 1994 production was 10 percent above the 1993 level because of a 10 percent increase in production in the second half of the year.
