

Streamflow and water quality monitoring

1997 Annual Report

The USGS, in collaboration with the YMC, established a stream gage at Nettle Brook on the east

The 11-hectare catchment has been used for water quality studies including nitrate and

The 1997 water year (October 1996 through September 1997) was slightly wetter than average in

The record is excellent from 1 April through the end of the water year as it was edited in support

Streamflow in feet                           