

The school has several courses called "Democracy Watch," focused on Southwest Florida government bodies -- cities and counties. Students report on issues before those bodies, and how the outcomes of government actions affect citizens. The courses are taught in collaboration with WFCU News, and many of the Democracy Watch stories wind up on the WFCU News webpage, and some on air.