

Kevin surrendered in 2003 when he left Kentucky to take the reins of the Vermont Historical Society. For the next five years he guided the VHS through difficult financial waters while maintaining its high standard of public service and scholarship. He tried to escape Vermont again in 2008, this time tempted by the directorship of the C